DO YOU KNOW What Your College Dreams Are?

Choosing the right college is a big decision, one that probably seems far away. But the truth is, the next four years will go fast, and the road to college begins now.

It's okay if you don't have all of the answers to what you'd like to do with your future, but it's important to start thinking about the types of classes you'll need in high school to meet the specific acceptance requirements of colleges that you might be considering. You don't want to get to your senior year and realize that you're short one unit of math or Spanish to be accepted into your dream college.

Use this brochure as a guide to the number of credits and standardized test scores required or recommended by many popular colleges. Data was gathered from www.collegedata.com. If you don't see a college you are considering, visit this site for details on close to 2,000 colleges across the nation.

Your first year of high school is an exciting new beginning, and a great time to start planning your future! Visit your guidance counselor if you have any questions.
